Reports

- e03044 Abundance and traits link predator ontogeny to prey communities. Denon Start
- e03033 Abiotic factors and plant biomass, not plant diversity, strongly shape grassland arthropods under drought conditions. Rebecca M. Prather, Karen Castillioni, Ellen A. R. Welti, Michael Kaspari, and Lara Souza
- e03051 Seasonal plasticity of thermal tolerance in ants. Jelena Bujan, Karl A. Roeder, Stephen P. Yanoviak and Michael Kaspari

Articles

- e03007 Alternative designs and tropical tree seedling growth performance landscapes. Samantha J. Worthy, Daniel C. Laughlin, Jenny Zambrano, María N. Umaña, Caicai Zhang, Luxiang Lin, Min Cao and Nathan G. Swenson
- e03019 Counting niches: Abundance-by-trait patterns reveal niche partitioning in a Neotropical forest. Rafael D'Andrea, John Guittar, James P. O'Dwyer, Hector Figueroa, S. J. Wright, Richard Condit and Annette Ostling
- e03017 Intraspecific variability drives functional changes in lichen epiphytic communities across Europe. Pilar Hurtado, María Prieto, Gregorio Aragón, Francesco de Bello and Isabel Martínez
- e03011 Parameterized maximum entropy models predict variability of metabolic scaling across tree communities and populations. Meng Xu
- e03018 Do birds help trees grow? An experimental study of the effects of land-use intensification on avian trophic cascades. Scott H. Harris, Urs G. Kormann, Thomas D. Stokely, Jake Verschuyf, Andrew J. Kroll and Matthew G. Betts
- e03022 Invasive species interact with climatic variability to reduce success of natives. Marina L. LaForgia, Susan P. Harrison and Andrew M. Latimer
- e03009 Temporal variation in effect sizes in a long-term, split-plot field experiment. Alexandro B. Leverkus and Michael J. Crawley
- e03023 Plant–soil feedback effects altered by aboveground herbivory explain plant species abundance in the landscape. Johannes Heinze, Alexander Wacker and Andrew Kulmatiski
- e03006 Soil nutrients and precipitation are major drivers of global patterns of grass leaf silicification. Kathleen M. Quigley, Daniel M. Griffith, George L. Donati and T. Michael Anderson
- e03020 Omitted variable bias in studies of plant interactions. Matthew J. Rinella, Dustin J. Strong and Lance T. Vermeire
- e03026 The role of omnivory in mediating metacommunity robustness to habitat destruction. Jinbao Liao, Daniel Bearup and William F. Fagan
- e03014 Community size can affect the signals of ecological drift and niche selection on biodiversity. Tadeu Siqueira, Victor S. Saito, Luis M. Bini, Adriano S. Melo, Danielle K. Petsch, Victor L. Landeiro, Kimmo T. Tolonen, Jenny Jyrkänkallio-Mikkola, Janne Soininen and Jani Heino

INFORMATION FOR SUBSCRIBERS

Ecology (ISSN 0012-9658) is published in 12 issues per year. Institutional subscription prices for 2020 are:

Online: US$1180 (US and Rest of World), €956.00 (Europe), £746.00 (UK). Prices are exclusive of tax. Asia-Pacific GST, Canadian GST/HST and European VAT will be applied at the appropriate rates. For more information on current tax rates, please go to www.wileyonlinelibrary.com/tax-vat. The price includes online access to the current and all online backfiles to January 1st 2016, where available.

For other pricing options, including access information and terms and conditions, please visit www.wileyonlinelibrary.com/access.

BACK ISSUES

Single issues from recent volumes (prior to 2018 when the journal transitioned to online-only publication) are available at the current issue price from cs-journals@wiley.com.

PERMISSIONS

Permission to make digital or hard copies of part or all of articles published in journals of the Ecological Society of America for personal use or educational use within one's home institution is granted to ESA members without fee, provided that the first page or initial screen of a display includes the notice "Copyright by the Ecological Society of America," along with the full citation, including the name of the author(s). Copyrights for components of a work owned by others than ESA must be honored. Authors may post their articles to their personal or home institution's website or institutional repository and may make and distribute photocopies of such articles. Instructors may post up to 10 articles from ESA publications to a publicly available class website, or an unlimited number of articles to a website or other electronic medium with access restricted to their class. Interlibrary loan is permitted so long as U.S. copyright regulations on fair use are observed and all interlibrary loan is done by print or fax rather than in a digital format. To copy or transmit otherwise, to republish, to post on public servers, to redistribute to lists, or to use any component of an article from an ESA journal in other works, or to use such an article for commercial or promotional purposes, requires prior specific permission and possible fee. Permissions may be obtained through the Copyright Clearance Center (www.copyright.com).
